

Reply to Professor Maria Bostenaru Dan (Editor)

Comments: Thank you for addressing my suggestions. I agree that if there are no own photos of the damage, it is complicated to acquire publication rights of photographs, since they also count as art works. I appreciate that the author addresses in the author's response that the damages caused by freezing rain express the impact of natural hazards on urban areas and infrastructure. This should be explicitly addressed in a sentence in the revised section, highlighting the relevance for the special issue.

Reply: We thank Professor Maria Bostenaru Dan to understand our concern about copyright issues. We also agree that the introduction has been significantly improved by highlighting the relevance between this study and the special issue. We thank for the comment again.